ALENTEJO – MIGUEL LOURO

Miguel Louro is the owner and winemaker of a five-hectare vineyard planted in 2010 at 400 meters altitude on schist soils in Estremoz, Alentejo. It is an area known for hot summer days and cool nights. The wines have more freshness and acidity.

Miguel does little as possible in the winery, working almost exclusively with local grapes. He maintains acidity by picking grapes earlier for elegant and pleasant drinking wines by keeping the alcohol levels low and acidity high. Given the necessary time in the cellar and glass, these wines offer perfume, power, and elegance.
